1. A copy of referent (b) is attached, which amplifies the guidance in referent (a) on preparation of letters of instruction (LOI's) for all employees in the M&S Directorate.

2. Please note that preparation of the LOI is intended to be a participatory exercise between the supervisor and the employee. This emphasis on participation does not convey that the individual employee can determine the content of his or her LOI. On the contrary, the LOI is a statement by the supervisor to the employee outlining the nature and scope of work to be accomplished. The prime importance of joint participation is to ensure that the employee and supervisor have a mutual understanding on the content of the LOI, since this will serve as the standard against which performance evaluation will be recorded by the supervisor.

3. There is no mandatory format for an LOI, although it is usually completed in a memorandum format and records the nature of the job to be performed, skills required or to be developed, and specific work tasks to be accomplished. The LOI is a formalized document outlining in as precise terms as possible what the supervisor expects the employee to accomplish. The LOI is a management tool and should be tailored to the strengths and weaknesses of the employee rather than just a position description. In each instance, the supervisor (usually the immediate supervisor) will sign the LOI and the employee will acknowledge that he has read and understood the LOI. Staff and division chiefs may designate a second officer in the chain of command to review and concur in the LOI, if appropriate. Attached are two samples of an LOI, one on an individual on indefinite detailed assignment of indefinite duration and a second on an individual incumbent in a regular T/O position. Please note that these attached samples are for general guidance only and not necessarily held forth for their excellence of content.

LETTERS OF INSTRUCTION

Reference: HR [REDACTED]

1. The recently revised Headquarters Regulation pertaining to employee fitness reports (FR's) requires each supervisor to provide his or her employees with an individual letter of instruction (LOI). To the maximum extent practicable, each letter should contain concise statements that include the annual performance objectives, action plans and desired timing of results (milestones or goals to be achieved at specific times during the year) expected of the employee. Letters should be brief, clear in meaning and written in a style that facilitates their use in the later preparation of FR's. Letters should be revised when significant changes occur in an employee's performance objectives, action plans or goals.

2. Initial LOI's should evolve downward from senior management. That is, an Office Director should initiate action in his office by preparing LOI's for the employees under his direct supervision, and they in turn for their employees, and so forth down the chain of command.

3. A vital part of the LOI procedure is the mutual participation of an employee and his supervisor in defining the employee's objectives and related details. This is necessary so the employee understands clearly what is expected of him and the basis on which his FR will be prepared.

4. Initial LOI's on all Directorate employees should be completed by 31 January 1974. Subsequently, an LOI should be prepared within 45 days following the assignment of an employee to a position in the M&S Directorate.

LETTER OF INSTRUCTION

Staff Personnel Division, Professional Placement Branch,
Position No. 0942 -- GS-13 -- Personnel Officer

1. The purpose of this memorandum is to provide you, the incumbent of the above position, with a clear understanding of the functions of your Branch, the specific duties of your position, and what will be expected of you as well as what you may expect from your Branch and Division.

2. The Professional Placement Branch acts on behalf of the Director of Personnel serving as his representative to all Agency components on personnel management matters. You are an advisor, a controller, a monitor, an implementer, an information collector and transmitter, and an initiator. The objective of PPB is to provide the best possible professional personnel management advice and operation in those areas of the Agency for which you are responsible. The Branch is concerned with the proper handling and management of Agency employees within the regulatory guidelines and organizational structure as it now exists.

3. You are the Office of Personnel representative to the DDI and DCI career services. As such, you are expected to be fully acquainted with the structure, the activities and the staffing of those career services. You need to know where they are, who they are and what they are doing. You will be expected to have frequent, direct, face-to-face contact with the representatives of your career services. You will be expected to be aware of their staffing plans and staffing problems. You will be expected to recommend solutions to their staffing problems.

4. As one of PPB's placement officers, you will periodically be responsible for conducting entrance on duty orientation programs for new professional and technical employees. This function will necessitate your being knowledgeable of Agency benefits, practices, policies, regulations and procedures relative to personnel. This function will necessitate your speaking before groups which may range from 10 to 40 in size.

5. You will conduct follow-up, pre-exit and placement interviews, all of which will be documented in accordance with existing Branch practices. You are the Equal Employment Opportunity counselor for the DCI and DDI career services. To perform this function you must be thoroughly acquainted with the Civil Service Equal Employment Opportunity Program and its requirements and procedures. At an appropriate time you will be enrolled in the Civil Service Commission's EEO training course.
6. You will review and approve for the Director of Personnel personnel actions and Quality Step Increase recommendations submitted by the DCI and DDI career services. You will monitor the Career Service Grade Authorization of each career service and be aware of the strength versus ceiling status of each career service. You will monitor and follow-up on time limited actions and delinquent fitness reports.
7. It is possible in your role as placement officer to over-emphasize police and monitor functions and under-emphasize advisory and problem solving responsibilities. Ideally, the placement officer is one who is considered by his career services to be a friend in court to whom the career service willingly turns for advice and counsel. Your ability to satisfy the needs of your career services, to continue to make improvements in personnel management in those career services while at the same time satisfy the needs of the Director of Personnel for adherence to Agency personnel management regulations and requirements, will determine whether or not your performance is average, better than average or below average.
8. It is important that you make every effort to keep abreast of your daily work load, that deadlines be considered seriously and met.
9. You are free at any time to consult with your co-workers, Branch Chief, or Division Chief to obtain assistance whenever you need it. It is your responsibility to keep your Branch Chief informed of any problems or activities which in your judgment are unusual.
10. You will be expected to make suggestions for change, to generate ideas to improve your function, and to show initiative in problem solving.
